

What is AVID Elementary? An Informational Session

This session will provide an introductory overview of AVID Elementary for participants who are planning to implement or are interested in implementing AVID Elementary. Existing AVID Elementary partners are welcome and may pick up some updated information through this session. Participants will learn what college readiness means in an elementary context as well as the relational connection between AVID Elementary and AVID Secondary. The intended audience is district stakeholders (superintendents, curriculum and instruction directors, and District Directors) and elementary or intermediate principals and assistant principals, teachers, and instructional specialists.

It's More About the Process Than the Paper: AVID's Focused Note-Taking Process Takes Notes to the Next Level!

How do students create a record of their learning? Where do students record their thinking in the classroom? Just because students are writing in class doesn't mean they are learning the material. How can educators focus the note-taking process on what students are doing to engage with their learning? This session will focus on AVID's relaunch of the focused note-taking process for elementary and secondary schools.

Crowdfunding for the Classroom: AVID and DonorsChoose

AVID knows that when teachers are engaged, students succeed. AVID implementation is already making a difference in classrooms for many, but are there materials or supplies that could enhance classroom instruction and students' learning? A panel of DonorsChoose teacher ambassadors and representatives will share best practices and advice for using the DonorsChoose platform for the classroom.

AVID for Higher Education: Resources to Reframe Teaching and Learning

AVID for Higher Education (AHE) proudly serves more than 80,000 students and their instructors in more than 50 two-year and four-year institutions in 16 states. In this session, a suite of products and services, including research-based resources to support teaching and learning in dual-credit programs, early college high schools, adult education and literacy programs, and traditional two-year colleges and four-year universities, will be presented by an AHE program manager. The discussion will highlight the implications of implementing these resources.
